The revolutionary cause of great President Kim Il Sung and his exploits serve as a shining example of all the people who struggle for liberation, sovereignty and independence and lead them, thus remaining unchanged.

The President, the founding father of socialist Korea, embarked on the road of revolutionary struggle (1925-1945) to liberate Korea from military occupation of Japan. He authored the Juche idea to light up the course ahead of the revolutionaries and people in Korea.

President Kim Il Sung said.

“Today the common task facing the progressive people of the world is to build an independent new world. By an independent world I mean a world which is free from domination and subjugation between countries and nations and from aggression and war, in other words, a new world where the international community has become democratic.”

The President advanced the idea on making the world independent in order to build a free and peaceful new world.

Feeling the pains of the world oppressed people, the President gave positive support and assistance to the struggle for national liberation and a new society in the countries in Africa, Latin America, Europe and the Middle East.

It was not an accident or propaganda that Sam Nujoma, the first Namibian president said that Namibia's independence was ascribed to President Kim Il Sung of the DPRK.

Thanks to the President's energetic activities, the non-aligned movement became the powerful force of developing countries in Africa, Latin America and the Middle East struggling for independence and solidarity against colonization and imperialism.

The great President gave unstinted support to the people in colonial African countries struggling to realize independence. The President sent many DPRK specialists and technicians to several African countries so as to give helping hands to the building of state and armed forces and the development of industry, agriculture, education, public health, dwellings and sports. The President paid particular attention to the project of teaching the African countries farming methods and irrigation technology in accordance with their climate and terrain environment.

At the suggestion of the President, symposium of the non-aligned countries on increasing food and agricultural production was held in Pyongyang. The President paid attention to the establishment of agricultural research centers for the agricultural development in Africa.

The DPRK agricultural scientists gave technological assistance to establish "Kim Il Sung Institute of Agriculture" in the Republic of Guinea and the "Chollima Institute of Agriculture" in Tanzania of Eastern Africa. Many African countries increased agricultural production thanks to such benevolent concerns.

That is why the African people consider that Juche idea is, indeed, the invincible citadel that enables them to realize their national sovereignty and independence and firmly adhere to the line of independence in the fields of politics, economy and national defence. It is because that the African people have come to perceive that only with Juche idea they can become genuine masters of their society and destiny and that no force on earth can threaten them.

August name of President Kim Il Sung symbolizes the sun and the memory of the President will be kept forever in the hearts of the progressive people in Africa.
