

Witness of Mankind – the DPRK Today

Yun Yong Nam

Researcher at the Korean Association of Social Scientists

Ten years has elapsed since the Juche idea followers held a large meeting in Pyongyang.

A Korean proverb says that other times, other manners.

Ten years that can be a moment in human history brought about a big change to destiny of many countries and nations aspiring after sustainable development.

Many changes were made in the DPRK thanks to the energetic leadership of the Workers' Party of Korea that unfolds the politics of loving the people.

Posting tens of photos, a website in Brazil once asked a question in order to introduce realities of the DPRK that develops day by day.

“Which country's buildings are these?”

To their regret, no reader replied that they were buildings in the DPRK.

When they came to know later that they were the buildings built in Pyongyang, the capital of the DPRK, the readers were surprised.

Then, what is the meaning of impact given to the readers by unbelievable changes and developing reality of the DPRK?

The meaning is that any sanction and pressure of hostile forces does not work in the DPRK.

Sanctions of hostile forces against the DPRK that are imposed on all fields of politics, military, diplomacy and the economy are vicious and despicable ones that are taken not by one country but by the imperialist allied forces and highly-intensified ones that are continued not for months or years but for nearly 80 years.

The respected Comrade Kim Jong Un said.

“The imperialists made the situation strained for decades to prevent our people from living in peace for even a moment and attempted to block all their routes to economic development and survival through blockades, coercion and sanctions.”

In order to gradually dissipate and weaken the DPRK's strength, greedy hostile forces constantly planted rotten seeds of high-intensive sanctions impatiently waiting for a sprout of so-called “collapse” in the DPRK.

The DPRK has been accustomed to shaping its destiny instead of predestined fate. It has frustrated with self-reliance, the national custom peculiar to it, the vicious sanctions and blockade of the hostile forces that hinder independence, existence and development, storing constantly the national strength, that is, a great success in strengthening the national defense capabilities and steadily consolidating the national strength.

Everyone is surprised at such realities.

Truth can be covered by nothing. That is why, I think, the readers were shocked by the DPRK’s realities.

Harsh sanctions imposed by hostile forces for centuries cause a wants—and difficulties in the DPRK today. The DPRK never hides this reality.

But every wish of the people is realized in the DPRK thanks to the WPK that always shares joys and sorrows with the people and makes every possible devoted effort for them with the politics of loving the people.

However, today many people of the world do not have a correct understanding of the DPRK due to the hostile forces’ cowardly act to deceive the people, who love justice and truth, with malignant propaganda about the DPRK’s “miserable reality”, purchased “witnesses” and “evidences” fabricated by traitors to the nation.

It was told that the telecasting of realities of Pyongyang as they were, which surprised the press circle with over 5 million audience in 2020, evoked admiration and wonder of many audience. Miguet, the special correspondent of TV France 2 in Beijing, confessed that Pyongyang is a wonderful city.

This is the DPRK today the people know.

Truth cannot be covered by anything.

Anyone who loves justice and truth should look into the today’s DPRK without prejudices.

It is necessary to remind again of contents of an article recently carried on the website by the Brazilian Committee for Solidarity with the DPRK under the title “Let us look into the DPRK without prejudices”.

The article said that the DPRK people always lead an optimistic life in the society where the people form one large family even under the condition in which the situation gets worse to the extreme. The article continued:

Any uneasiness, waver and worry cannot be found in the people's words and behavior but rather optimism can be found in their laughter.

The DPRK people grasped the truth that everything should be solved by themselves in the course of building socialism.

They have suffered from foreign invasion for long years and are now living under the threat of war. But they are doing everything remarkably and wonderfully, indeed.

The DPRK is now on the way to its constant development.

Spectacular streets are continuously being built and productive capacity of factories and enterprises is increased as days go by. Systems of free education and free medical care of higher level are enforced. Modern and luxurious dwelling houses are provided to ordinary working people free of charge and the might of the planned economy is displayed to the full.

Saying that the DPRK's reality is beyond comprehension of the people in the West, the article emphasized that people could know the reason when they visited the DPRK.

A Korean proverb says that seeing is believing.

People who have a wrong view of the DPRK would better visit Pyongyang to see the reality that is under unbelievable sanctions, with their own eyes.